ESSENTIAL INSPIRATION FOR CREATIVE MINDS

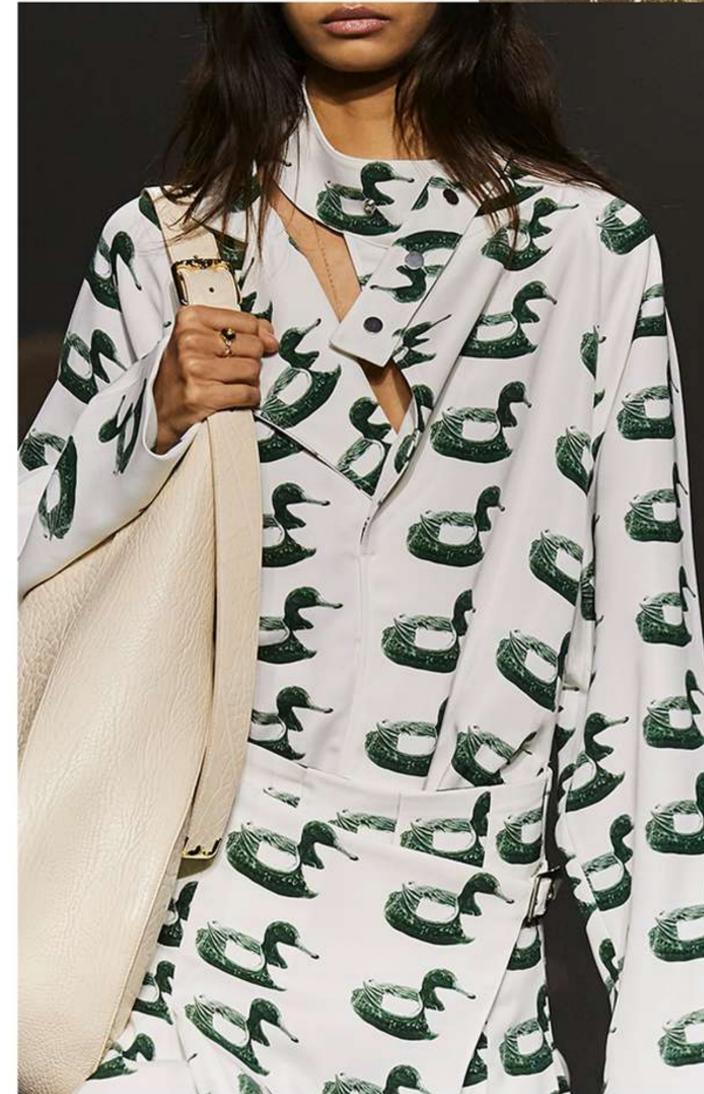

USP INSPIRE:
FARM YARD FUN

As the obsession with nature continues, fashion is adopting a new take on the farm yard-inspired aesthetic. Moving away from a twee cottagecore mood, designers are referencing nature in a playful, graphic and slightly surreal way, while also making a statement about sustainability and plant-based lifestyles.

The A/W 23/24 catwalks were awash with farm yard imagery. Collina Strada's collection was titled Please Don't Eat My Friends and saw models wearing animal prosthetics and hoof-printed Vans. Christopher Kane used AI-generated prints of pigs and chicks, while Burberry's collection included duck motifs, feathers and wellies.

For their latest campaign PETA have created a mock children's TV show with ad agency House 337. Starring comedian Jessie Cave and set at fictional Red River Farm, cute cows and sheep sing about animal cruelty and ask viewers to stop wearing all animal products, including wool.

Be inspired by a playful take on farm life, with graphic prints, animal imagery and fun yet functional accessories
